28 LIVES AND 5 SHIPS ARE LOST IN BIG STORM

TERRIFIC GALES IN ATLANTIC ALSO ON THE ENGLISH COAST

THRILLING TALE OF RESCUE IS TOLD BY THE CAPTAIN OF FREIGHTER MENOMINEE

VIRGINIA CAPES DUE TO GET THE BACKWASH OF STORM TONIGHT AND THURSDAY

London, Dec. 27.—Twenty-eight lives and five ships have been lost in terrific gales and hurricanes raging in the Atlantic and along the coast of England, according to reports here today.

Toll of the storm continues to grow as additional details of its fury come in from ports on the western English coast. The disturbances are extending far into the ocean, battering and buffeting even the strongest liners, officers of vessels arriving from the westward way.

The liner Celtic arrived from America, passengers and officers reporting the worst weather for thirty years in the Atlantic.

Havoc was played by the wind and huge waves battered smaller coastal ships. The captain of one British steamer that limped into port reported his wireless had picked up three different distress signals but was unable to aid because of his ship's condition and the S. O. S. calls finally died out.

Worst Damage in Decades
New York, Dec. 27.—The storm tossing and damaging ships in mid-Atlantic is the worst for several decades, according to officers arriving here.

Practically all liners carrying thousands of passengers were from a day to three days late. So far, however, no major ships have been reported lost. Those reported down in London dispatches are believed to be freighters.

Thrilling tales of rescue in the storm of the British schooner Gordon C. Fudge by the Atlantic transport freighter Menominee, was told here today.

After the schooner's masts and sails had been ripped away and the hull filled with water, the Fudge crew gave up all hope. Driven far from their course, they tried their pumps in a last desperate effort to keep afloat. The British flag was blown away. Captain Fudge found an American flag, however, and inserted it on a broken mast. It was this flag that attracted the attention of men on the Menominee, which was also out of its course. Despite the danger, the freighter was swung about and with great waves washing over her decks, her men succeeded in rescuing the schooner's crew.

Storm Travels to North Atlantic Coast

Washington, Dec. 28.—The storm that has been raging in the Atlantic ocean for the last few days and endangering many steamers, will strike the middle and northern Atlantic coast late tonight and tomorrow, the weather bureau warned today.

Strong northeast gales with colder weather were forecast for the entire coast north of the Virginia capes.

Triple Attack Against Borah Proposal

NORTHERN STATES POWER COMPANY'S $80,000,000 DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Dec. 29.—Work on the first step of an $80,000,000 light, power and steam development program for the Northern States Power Company here will begin next week.

The first new unit will develop 100,000 horse power and completion of the ten year program will produce 496,000 horse power.

Ground will be broken on a fifty acre tract near the high bridge, St. Paul, early in January, G. O. House, St. Paul manager of the power company announced. Representatives of the engineering companies have been at work here for weeks.

In addition to the 100,000 horse power unit in St. Paul the company's plans calls for development of 160,000 horse power from the water power on the St. Croix and upper Mississippi rivers.

163,000 horse power in Minneapolis, St. Paul, St. Croix Falls and the Coon Rapids is planned at present.

The St. Croix plant will be increased 20,000 to 30,000 horse power.

Work on the Nevers dam on the St. Croix river will begin early in January. This is located eleven miles above St. Croix Falls and will be brought up to a capacity of 27,000 horse power.

Building of a new concrete dam and power house at Kettle Rapids 28 miles north of the Nevers dam with a capacity of 33,000 horse power is included in the program. Eight miles north of this plant a water storage dam will be built.

A concrete dam and power house is to be built at Otasgo on the Mississippi river with a capacity of 20,000 horse power. Another concrete dam and power house it to be built at Monticello with a capacity of 16,000 horse power.

In all, 306,000 horse power is to be added to the company's property in the next ten years.

The company has given no consideration to the government high dam between St. Paul and Minneapolis in the Mississippi in the program announced.

With more than 25,000 shareholders now, most of them living in Minnesota, the company expects to double and treble that number as its development program unfolds.

AN INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC PARLEY IS SOUGHT BY HIM

BORAH'S OPPONENTS LEAD OFF WITH A SPEECH BY SENATOR LODGE

RESERVATIONS TO PLAN OFFERED BY OTHER SENATORS, PLUS POINT OF ORDER

By L. C. MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Washington, Dec. 28.—A triple attack was ready to be launched today in the senate against the Borah proposal for an international economic conference.

This attack, according to present plans of Borah's opponents the leaders of the administration forces, will be on these lines:

1. A speech by Senator Lodge, administration leader and spokesman assailing the Borah proposal with some qualifications.

2. Reservations to the Borah plan to be offered by Senator Watson, Indiana, another administration spokesman and possibly by Senator Hiram Johnson, California, irreconcilable who has broken with Borah over this question.

3. A point of order that Borah's proposal offered as an amendment to the naval appropriations bill, is out of order because it is new and general legislation on an appropriations measure.

Senator Lodge's Statement

A conference to consider land disarmament as suggested by Senator Borah in connection with his proposal for an economic conference would be useless, Senator Lodge declared today in a speech to the senate "unless in advance France withdrew her objections and agreed to cooperate with the other powers in lowering land forces."

Lodge thus opened the combined attack of the Harding administration on Borah's two proposals for an economic and disarmament parley.

Previously, about twenty republican senators in a "war council" in Lodge's office agreed to fight Borah's move.

"Perhaps France has changed her attitude since barely a year ago she refused to consider land disarmament and a disarmament conference," said Lodge, "if she has, I have no information to that effect. Perhaps Senator Borah has."

The United States, Lodge said, has already reduced land forces to "something less than proper strength." Sen. Lodge similarly reviewed the arms conference failure to reach agreements on the submarines and aircraft questions included in the amendment to the naval bill which the house adopted and which Borah seeks to broaden.

Borah Proposal Broadly Drawn

Washington, Dec. 27.—"The American delegation presented a complete program to the arms conference relating to limitation of auxiliary crafts," Lodge, who was one of the delegates, said.

"But the French were opposed to the proposition. M. Briand pointed out that his government could not accept any proposal relating to abolition or limitation of cruisers or submarines without coming in conflict with both houses of its legislative body."

Lodge pointed out that France and Italy have not yet ratified the naval limitations treaty without which ratification the work of the conference will remain ineffective.

"We have no information, so far as I am aware, from Holland, France, Italy or Great Britain that they would discuss limitation of aircraft, submarines or auxiliary crafts," said Lodge. "Therefore, such a conference would be futile. It might do no harm except to place us in an embarrassing position, but it certainly would do no good. In my opinion, we should do nothing about it, therefore, until informed by those

CHICAGO METHODISTS TO ERECT THE TALLEST CHURCH IN THE WHOLE WORLD

(By United Press)

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Three massive sky scrapers towering high above the palace of Chicago's present office buildings, were projected here today.

Permission to erect the tallest church building in the world was obtained from the city council by Chicago Methodists. The new building to be erected near the center of the downtown business section will rise to a height of 556 feet. The regulation height for sky scrapers has been limited by city council to 100 feet. Lifting of the restriction in this case is expected to open up a new era of sky scraper construction. The new Chicago Tribune building will tower to a height of 650 feet if the board of aldermen will dispense with the 400 foot rule. Tribune authorities announced.

Plans were laid for a new federal building 27 stories in height and to occupy an entire block. This structure would be taller than any present building in Chicago and the the most colossal federal building, to be built at a cost of $15,000,000. It would house all federal departments now scattered in various buildings throughout the city.

in charge of our foreign relations that such a conference would be effective."

Lodge said the United States ought "above all things" to build cruisers and airplane carriers permitted under the Washington treaty.

"They are absolutely needed and we have the right to have them," he asserted.

Taking up the proposal for an economic conference, Lodge said in his opinion it was not in order under the senate rule. "Its importance, however, is very great," Lodge continued. "Selfishness alone will make all desire to do anything possible for stabilization of European affairs. Everyone must be anxious to have the United States do all it can to aid Europe."

The Borah proposal, Lodge said, is so broadly drawn that it has no boundaries" and it seems to me if we are going to consider it that we ought to know exactly what the powers of this conference are to be. As it is worded there is nothing to prevent the conference considering the foreign debts due the United States a subject already taken care of by congress."

"If we summon the nations, we ought to tell them just what we mean to consider."

"I think the debt question ought to be excluded. The question should be dealt with by the United States alone. It should not be settled by other powers."

"Under this call we should be called on to take part in the work of the reparations commission and perhaps in the revision of the Versailles treaty."

SHOCKING MURDER OF 10 YEAR OLD TERESA McCARTHY

BECAUSE OF WINSOMENESS AND BEAUTY CALLED "LITTLE VAMP"

GIRL FOUND DEAD WITH GAPING BULLET HOLE IN HER BREAST

(By United Press)
New York, Dec. 27.—The mysterious murder of Teresa McCarthy, ten years old, known in the Brooklyn neighborhood in which she lives as "the little vamp" because of her winsomeness and beauty, completely baffled the city's best detectives today.

The girl was found dead from a bullet wound in her breast by her mother, Mrs. Pauline McCarthy, when the latter returned from work late last night. The little body lay on the floor among scattered Christmas toys in the dining room. The child had been alone all day while the mother, a divorcee, was at work.

When Mrs. McCarthy returned she found the apartment door locked and was forced to call the janitor to get in. Police who were called immediately declared there was no evidence that anyone had been in the apartment other than the girl. Search for finger prints on the kitchen window, raised a few inches, failed to reveal any clue.

50 WALBY BUDDIES OFFER PATROL TO END STORE HOLDUPS

COMRADES OF SLAIN MINNEAPOLIS GROCER WILL ACT ON DEFENSE PLAN

TO COOPERATE WITH POLICE IN FINDING SLAYER—WALBY'S FUNERAL TUESDAY

Minneapolis, Dec. 27.—Fifty overseas buddies of Orville P. Walby, killed by a lone bandit on Saturday night in his store at 3300 Chicago avenue, will offer to act as a patrol cooperating with the police in the protection of outlying stores, if plans to be presented at a meeting of the James Ballentine post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars are indorsed.

A squad of eight of Walby's comrades with bugles and colors, followed his body to Hudson, Wis., and acted as pallbearers. Before the funeral cortege left for Hudson, short services were conducted at the home he had just furnished at 4004 Chicago avenue.

Walby's young wife, who has been an invalid for six months, insisted on going to the door to watch the funeral procession file past. She was on the point of complete collapse. She arose from her sickbed for the first time in months shortly before the murder Saturday night to trim a Christmas tree.

At Hudson, the squad of soldier friends of Walby fired a volley over the grave and blew taps.

Returning to Minneapolis, the plan to prevent similar tragedies was outlined. Henry Jacobson, who fought with Walby in France, and took part in the simple services for him will present the plan to the meeting.

"We believe we can help in halting bandits who have preyed upon outlying stores the last year," said George W. Hanson, post commander. "We certainly are anxious to try, after what has happened to our pal. And we will do everything in our power to find the man who killed him."

Orville Walby was one of the most popular active members of the James Ballentine post, 90 per cent of whose 600 members saw service in France.

HOME!
Just four letters
Resonant and sweet,
But the halo that glows over each letter
For there
Conjures memories as sacred as heaven.
And no man that breathes knows its meaning in full
Until he has one of his own;
There happiness lives,
There sorrow is born,
There heartaches and heartbreaks are mended.
There love builds its nest,
And there loved are caressed,
And prayers spring aloft from hearts that are sore.
Of mothers who plead on knees bended,
The lad and the lass who would build a true home
Must cherish a right.
I'll give you the recipe mother gave me
When I took a ship's mild to a cottage
To call her my own.
First, give and forgive, said mother to me,
In each life there must be forgiving.
And if a small mole hill appears in your path,
Don't make it a mountain, while living;
Full many a mountain will stand in your way.
You must scale them, each helping the other.
You have pictured a dreamland in her maiden mind,
To her you are perfect, don't destroy it.
Too soon will the future dissolve her mirage,
So enjoy it.
You can't build a home on day dreams,
my boy,
For day dreams dispel with the waking.
But trials and cares and foreboding years
Come to Home, Sweet Home, in the making.

The tree was a fine specimen, the gift of C. B. Anderson who makes a church each Christmas.

Many gifts were distributed as three hundred apples.

Many members from the country took advantage of the good roads and

EDUCATION BY RADIO

THE possibility of radio as an educational medium cannot be over-emphasized. Already the craze for this mysterious novelty, which enables a man to receive communications from vast distances while he sits contentedly in his own home, is passing, and the demand for high class concerts and talks by the ablest speakers is becoming more insistent.

The radio may serve two very good ends. If the programs sent out are sufficiently attractive, families will be held at home, thereby counteracting the prevalent tendency of modern times to spend the evening away from the home. In securing this beneficial end, the very means used to gain it will yield the second value by stimulating an interest in educational subjects. As a medium for the dissemination of information and stimulating messages, the radio may be of inestimable value to American civilization.

There is always the danger however, that those who measure this medium of communication in terms of financial gain will seek to win large sales by descending to the vulgar and the cheap. Probably much that is said of the radio as an educational medium can also be said of moving pictures, but the time has not yet come when producers seek to use the pictures for the highest purposes.

However, through the opportunity that the radio affords of tuning in on various programs, it will be possible to have those who want the best so served, and programs sent out by our universities giving the latest findings of the professors will be offered to those who wish to sit at home and study subjects that they would otherwise be unable to take up because they cannot afford time and money to leave home and enter the class room.

By this medium the best in America can be sent into the homes of those who are far from the centers of learning and the standards of American life may be correspondingly raised. The medium is at hand and awaits utilization by those who would serve the best interests of the people.

UNIFYING BRAINERD'S ORGANIZATIONS

THE suggestion of the Brainerd Tribune, which that paper admits is not original but is a statement of the combined experience of the successful civic organizations in other cities, is worthy of serious thought on the part of all of our citizens.

There are many of the members of the Chamber of Commerce who have felt for some time that Brainerd is seriously over-organized and that because of this condition energies and time are dissipated without winning those results which ought to accrue from such reckless expenditure.

While this is commonly held to be true by many of our citizens, there are few who feel qualified to propose a remedy, and the Brainerd Tribune does not propose a remedy which has not been tried with successful results in other places. St. Paul and St. Cloud are among the cities in this state where citizens, who became convinced that their organizations would do better service for the community if unified, set out to reduce the number of organizations and thereby improved the service of the men who, working through one organization, accomplished more for their cities than they could possibly have done so long as they worked through a number.

We are convinced that the argument is all on the side of unification and that all that is needed to bring about an organization that will better serve the whole community is a serious attempt to improve upon a condition that is recognized as defective.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

PRESIDENT HARDING has gone on record for the strict enforcement of the Volstead act. He takes the position that so long as the law exists it must be enforced and that its enforcement will lead to the people expressing themselves on the subject that has caused much debate during the life of the law.

In calling in the governors of the states to consult with him on putting through this decision, the president has done well. Cooperation of federal and state officials will lead to a much more efficient handling of the question.

This law has been so commonly violated that through such violation a prevalent disrespect for law has been engendered. The country's good would be better conserved, by repealing a law that through its non-enforcement, leads to contempt for other laws and promotes a condition of lawlessness, than by ignoring flagrant violations of the law.

President Harding is doing his duty in demanding the strict enforcement of this law.

WHEN TOURING ON JAP DIAMONDS

YANK TWIRLER TELLS OF MARVELOUS FLUID MADE IN FLOWERY KINGDOM—UNEARTHS CROSS-EYED TWIRLER WITH PUZZLING DELIVERY

Bullet Joe Bush of Brainerd and the New York Yankees has made some wonderful discoveries during his sojourn in Japan with the American baseball team. Joe first sighted a cross-eyed Jap southpaw, who has a very puzzling delivery on account of his headlight and now he has found a fluid that is not beer, nor ale nor liquor, but is merely medicine that brings back youth.

And it must have a wonderful kick because Joe says the boys have decided to stay away from it—that is as much as possible. Joe asserts that after taking one drink he didn't have to shave for four days. But we'll let Joe tell the story in the letter as printed in the New York World. Here goes:

"Dear Hug: Get the Cap and Colonel Jake to get busy right away and send over to buy a brewery here which makes the most wonderful medicine that ever was heard of and just the thing for ball players.

"I have got to keep the name secret, but it is not hooch and it is not beer, nor ale or any of those things. But it is powerful. A regular dose makes a man twenty years younger. What do you know about that?"

"I took a drop the other day and I pitched like I did when I was with the Athletics in '13. Casey Stengel took a drop and HE played like he did when he first went with Brooklyn. One of the newspaper men in the crowd took a regular dose and he's been acting like a child ever since. Why, it just fairly MAKES you younger. I didn't have to shave for four days after I took my drop. After what happened to us the kids on the trip are afraid of the stuff. Why, young Hoyt says if he took a drop he'd be only 12 years old and couldn't pitch at all. I guess that's right.

"But I've got a great scheme, and that's why I want you to corner the supply of this stuff. The Colonels have bought everything in the world so they might as well try this. We'll get a lot and take it back to the Yank office. Then we'll sign Hans Wagner and Lajoie and Jimmy Collins and Eddie Plank and McGinnity and Chesbro and give them each a couple of drops and you'll have the greatest ball nine the world ever saw. We'll give Frank Baker a drop or so. Why, YOU might take some and go back to being lead-off man again! Think of it. What would folks say when we'd put in McGinnity and Bresnahan to start a game in the new Yankee stadium? Or old Cy Young! Hell! There's no limit to the possibilities of this stuff!"

"It's made out of roses and onions or something like that and is pure white and smells something like moonshine and gasoline would taste if you mixed them. It ain't great to taste, either. But you can give the boys a drop on a lump of sugar—and a drop's all you need. It IS powerful.

"We were a little afraid of it at first, but there was an old dog they call Nellie in Japanese lying around the railroad station, and we gave her a couple of drops. Why she grew nice, silky hair and had a litter of pups a couple of weeks later.

"I have got the bird who makes this stuff located and he won't do anything till he hears from the Colonels. Make them do business. It's the biggest thing ever."

Here followed the name and address of the manufacturer of the mysterious potion which Colonel Houston is now guarding with great care.

Of course, there was the usual postscript from Joe. In it he said:

"Perhaps you had better keep this stuff away from the Babe. It would not be safe. When we gave Stengel his drop he began to sweat the ball something awful. He LOST one up a mountain. The way I figure it is that if it has that effect on him, what would it do to a socker like the Babe? Why, it wouldn't be safe at the Yankee park next spring. He'd be knocking the cars off the subway tracks in center or crashing through apartment houses with a terrible loss of life, and maybe the club would get sued. Keep it away from HIM. J. B."

IF KIDNEYS BOTHER
TRY DOSE OF SALTS

Flush the Kidneys At Once When Back Aches or Bladder Bother

No man or woman who eats lots of meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much meat may form uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood; then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

EDUCATION BY RADIO

THE possibility of radio as an educational medium cannot be over-emphasized. Already the craze for this mysterious novelty, which enables a man to receive communications from vast distances while he sits contentedly in his own home, is passing, and the demand for high class concerts and talks by the ablest speakers is becoming more insistent.

The radio may serve two very good ends. If the programs sent out are sufficiently attractive, families will be held at home, thereby counteracting the prevalent tendency of modern times to spend the evening away from the home. In securing this beneficial end, the very means used to gain it will yield the second value by stimulating an interest in educational subjects. As a medium for the dissemination of information and stimulating messages, the radio may be of inestimable value to American civilization.

There is always the danger however, that those who measure this medium of communication in terms of financial gain will seek to win large sales by descending to the vulgar and the cheap. Probably much that is said of the radio as an educational medium can also be said of moving pictures, but the time has not yet come when producers seek to use the pictures for the highest purposes.

SALVATION ARMY IS LUCKY WINNER

Gains Pathe Phonograph and $50 Records with 227,687 Votes in Popularity Contest

STAGED AT THE "GOLDEN RULE"

Contest Lasted 3 Weeks and Marked Unusually Successful Merchandising Campaign

The Pathe phonograph with $50 in records which was given in the popularity contest staged by the Golden Rule, was won by the Salvation Army, which amassed a total of 227,687 votes.

The contest closed Saturday night after a strong campaign lasting three weeks, in which a large number of contestants worked long and hard. Following is the list of the ten highest:

Salvation Army	227,687
American Legion	214,996
St. Francis Guild	201,108
Mrs. Frank Russell	81,882
World War Veterans	59,147
Mrs. Hotchkiss	55,204
Business & Prof. Womens Club	42,766
Presbyterian church	34,446
Rebekah Lodge	34,421
Methodist church	34,240

The phonograph and records were delivered to the Salvation Army on Tuesday morning.

This contest was put on in conjunction with a special Christmas sale, the results of which were most satisfactory as reported by H. H. Halstrom, owner of the Golden Rule. Seven additional sales people were necessary to handle the large volume of business.

It is interesting to note that 90 per cent of the advertising for this sale was carried in the Dispatch, most of it centered in the Daily, and the success of the sale is attributed to the generous use of space in this paper. Just another proof that "It Pays to Advertise".

COMMENDATORY LETTER

Bethlehem Mens' Club Praises Police Chief For His Law Enforcement Record

The police department in any city is always the butt of more or less criticism, for as in any public office, it is impossible to please all. And a police department, from the very nature of its work, receives more attacks than is usual in public service.

Therefore, it is with extreme satisfaction that the following letter was displayed by Chief Erik Graf:

"Dear Sir: At the last meeting of the Bethlehem Mens' Club, by unanimous vote, I was instructed to write you, commending you and your force on the good work you are doing enforcing the law regarding the liquor traffic and gambling in our city".

The letter is signed by S. E. Engbretson, as secretary of the club, and voices very nicely the sentiments of all law abiding citizens of Brainerd, who are working for a better, cleaner city.

Such communications are always welcome to the police, since they lend considerable moral support to the officers of the department.

BEAUTIFUL CALENDARS

First National Bank Secures as Subjects Reproductions of Famous Masterpieces

The 1923 calendars of the First National Bank are being distributed. The bank has been very fortunate this year in securing for their calendar subjects reproductions of two famous masterpieces, "The Souvenir of the Lake" and "The Last Ray".

"The Souvenir of the Lake" is by Emil Corot, one of the foremost artists that appeared in the art world of France during the nineteenth century. The original painting now valued at $50,000 hangs in the T. B. Walker art galleries at Minneapolis.

"The Last Ray" was painted by Jules Breton, an artist who produced several masterpieces, including the "Evening Call", "Song of the Lark" and others. "The Last Ray" is also the property of T. B. Walker and is valued at $20,000.

WILL THE YOUTH BE SERVED?

Or will the Alumni Team, Barring Charley Horses, Run up the High Figure in the Score?

(By W. G.)

The annual clash between the alumni and the Brainerd high school will take place this Thursday, December 28. This game will be full of interest for both the old-timers as well as the up and coming members of the high school.

Do we have as good basketball teams now as we used to have? Many have argued whole evenings on the subject.

Capt. Hess says "Yes", aye more, he says the present lineup can whip the pick of all the stars of past years. The alumni doesn't believe it. We do, that is, the high school has practically admitted it. Any way, the great question will be settled tomorrow night.

The alumni will match the locals with as equal weight as possible. Good old warriors like Engbretson, Sargent, Engstrom, Welsh, Hill and Bakula are scheduled to face our little cagers. There will be lot more in trunks also, the exact lineup could not be obtained.

The same team that licked Aitkin will start out with the alumni. Mr. Kimball, veteran high school coach, will referee, assuring fair play. The admission is 25c per head. Come on, alumni, back up your team!

Midweek Prayer Service

The last prayer service of the year will be held on Thursday evening at 7:45 at the First Baptist church. This should be a crowning climax in prayer devotion and consecration of the year, at the First Baptist Church. Let all make double effort to be present. The pastor will lead.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Child Not Getting Square Deal if not Educated on Spiritual as Well as Material Side

Members of the general committee on Educational week were asked to contribute articles for the press on educational subjects, and Mrs. W. H. Gemmell has thoughtfully written the following communication which stresses religious education.

While we are considering the various subjects suggested for Educational week, let us not, as individuals at least, forget to give a little thought to the matter of religious education. A child is not getting a square deal who is not being educated on the spiritual as well as on the material side. All truth is not contained in the books of the chemists and biologists. Truth is also found in books of ethics, philosophy and religion. Religious education must be put on a basis where it is respected, but it will deal not with the development of the intellect alone, but also with that of the heart and the soul. Every rural child as well as every town child should have the opportunity of religious education. Churches have special responsibility in this matter.

A state social worker, whose duties concern the physical betterment of people, said recently: "My work is not enough; my patients need also religion, the vision of a better life, and the desire and power to live it."

Lowered moral ideals are the direct outcome of the materialistic philosophies which are current only in the higher institutions of learning in Germany, but in America also; as well as the outcome of poor social environment.

In the blanks sent out by the State to be filled out in adoption, placement or in mothers' allowance cases, space is reserved in which to tell of what religious opportunities the child will have. Under healthful religious influences the child is safe-guarded, he is also educated in spirit so that he has the vision and power to self-control, make the highest decisions, and appreciate the value of unselfish as well as selfish service, all of which are necessary for his own happiness and for his development into good citizenship.

SALVATION ARMY IS LUCKY WINNER

Gains Pathe Phonograph and $50 Records with 227,687 Votes in Popularity Contest

STAGED AT THE "GOLDEN RULE"

Contest Lasted 3 Weeks and Marked Unusually Successful Merchandising Campaign

The Pathe phonograph with $50 in records which was given in the popularity contest staged by the Golden Rule, was won by the Salvation Army, which amassed a total of 227,687 votes.

The contest closed Saturday night after a strong campaign lasting three weeks, in which a large number of contestants worked long and hard. Following is the list of the ten highest:

Salvation Army	227,687
American Legion	214,996
St. Francis Guild	201,108
Mrs. Frank Russell	81,882
World War Veterans	59,147
Mrs. Hotchkiss	55,204
Business & Prof. Women's Club	42,766
Presbyterian church	34,446
Rebekah Lodge	34,421
Methodist church	34,240

The phonograph and records were delivered to the Salvation Army on Tuesday morning.

This contest was put on in conjunction with a special Christmas sale, the results of which were most satisfactory as reported by H. H. Halstrom, owner of the Golden Rule. Seven additional sales people were necessary to handle the large volume of business.

It is interesting to note that 90 per cent of the advertising for this sale was carried in the Dispatch, most of it centered in the Daily, and the success of the sale is attributed to the generous use of space in this paper. Just another proof that "It Pays to Advertise."

COMMENDATORY LETTER

Bethlehem Mens' Club Praises Police Chief For His Law Enforcement Record

The police department in any city is always the butt of more or less criticism, for as in any public office, it is impossible to please all. And a police department, from the very nature of its work, receives more attacks than is usual in public service.

Therefore, it is with extreme satisfaction that the following letter was displayed by Chief Erick Graff:

"Dear Sir: At the last meeting of the Bethlehem Mens' Club, by unanimous vote, I was instructed to write you, commending you and your force on the good work you are doing enforcing the law regarding the liquor traffic and gambling in our city."

The letter is signed by S. E. Engbretson, as secretary of the club, and voices very nicely the sentiments of all law abiding citizens of Brainerd, who are working for a better, cleaner city.

Such communications are always welcome to the police, since they lend considerable moral support to the officers of the department.

The 1923 calendars of the First National Bank are being distributed. The bank has been very fortunate this year in securing for their calendar subjects reproductions of two famous masterpieces, "The Souvenir of the Lake" and "The Last Ray."

"The Souvenir of the Lake" is by Emile Corot, one of the foremost artists that appeared in the art world of France during the nineteenth century. The original painting now valued at $50,000 hangs in the T. B. Walker art galleries at Minneapolis.

"The Last Ray" was painted by Jules Breton, an artist who produced several masterpieces, including the "Evening Call," "Song of the Lark" and others. "The Last Ray" is also the property of T. B. Walker and is valued at $20,000.

FANNING WITH ARRELL

OUTSTANDING EVENTS IN 1922

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Dec. 27.—Babe Ruth's collapse as the champion swatter and the dismal rout of the New York Yankees in the world's series were the outstanding events in 1922 baseball.

General prosperity was reported in most of the major and minor league clubs, although some of the eastern teams in the major leagues did not profit as they did in 1921.

Miserable weather in the early part of the season had much to do with it and there is no doubt that the absence of Babe Ruth during the time he was under suspension hurt the American League.

From a National League standpoint, the world's series was a great success, in as much as it was such a glorious victory for the Giants, who were looked upon as easy meat for the Yankees by most of the experts.

For the business offices of the two clubs, the series was a big bust and both teams lost money. The receipts of the tie game, approximately $121,900 were turned over to charity by Commissioner Landis and it was one of the best days of the series.

While it was a heavy loss to the clubs, the action of Landis was one of the best things that could have been done for baseball, as it stopped a lot of talk about commercialization of the series.

In reviewing the work on the diamond in the last season, familiar faces will be found in most of the honor places.

The champion batter of the National League was Rogers Hornsby, the great star of the St. Louis Cardinals who batted .4013.

Another great St. Louisan, George Sisler, the star first baseman of the Browns, again led the American League hitters with an average of .419.

Hornsby gained further laurels by becoming the home run king of the "big time," with a total of 42.

Kenneth Williams, a third noble of St. Louis, grabbed the homer title in the American League with a total of 39.

The Babe got himself 35, which was doing quite well considering the handicap placed on him by his suspension.

While the rise of youngsters began to be asserted in the National League pitching department, the veterans did well especially in the American League.

In average runs allowed per game, young "Rosey" Ryan, of the Giants was the best pitcher in the National League. He allowed only three runs per game.

Pete Donahue, another youngster with the Cincinnati Reds, led the league in games won and lost with eighteen victories out of twenty-seven games.

"Old Red" Faber, who is rather addicted to the habit, was the most effective pitcher in the American League. He allowed an average of only 2.81 runs a game.

Joe Bush, another old man of the pastime, led the league in games won and lost with twenty-six victories out of thirty-three games.

Southpaws predominated in the National League in one respect. The three leading pitchers in the number of games won were Cooper, Rixey, and Reuther. Cooper won twenty-seven games; Rixey 25 and Reuther 21. No trio of right handers could come near the mark.

The leaders among the fielders were:

First base—Judge, Senators; McInnis, Indians and Daubert, Reds.
Second base—Collins, White Sox; Hornsby, Cards.
Third base—Jones, Detroit; Groh, Giants.
Shortstop—Scott, Yankees; Hollocher, Cubs.
Outfielders—Speaker, Cleveland; Veach and Cobb, Detroit; Wheat, Robins; Powell, Braves; and Muesel, Giants.
Catchers—Schalk, White Sox; Henline, Phils.

AMUSEMENTS

At the New Park

Bud Doyle crawled out of bed to the window. The weakness of a long illness had left him faint and trembling.

On his unsteady journey across the room his hand rested for a moment on the bureau. His fingers touched something cold and metallic. It was a mirror. By instinct his fingers closed upon it. Ordinarily Bud was not very much interested in mirrors. The police had always shown considerably more interest in his face than he had ever felt himself but as he touched the mirror there did come to his mind a faint curiosity to know just what happens to a face when you fall out of an aeroplane upon it.

He took one look out of the window, then he lifted the mirror to the light.

What he saw almost stopped the blood in his veins.

The face he saw in the mirror was not his face.

This, with the extraordinary event which followed, is one of the thrilling and dramatic situations in Thomas H. Ince's super-photoplay, which will be seen at the New Park theatre tonight and Thursday.

Classification—A love drama of great appeal to all audiences. Spectacular from beginning to end.

Production Highlights—The love scenes gorgeous gowns. The scenes in the Alps, in Paris in London, in Versailles and in the desert. The battle between the English research expedition and the Arabian bandits. The rescue scene in the mountains. The pageant. The fine cast. The Elinor Glynn "moments." The author. "Grand Larceny" at the Lyceum

The quest for new faces for the screen has been successful in the latest Goldwyn picture to be shown at the Lyceum Theatre tonight and Thursday. "Grand Larceny," by Albert Payson Terhune, is the photoplay chosen by Goldwyn for the debut of beautiful Claire Windsor as a leading lady. We know of no one in recent years who looks so beautiful in everything she wears, and who at the game time doesn't let us forget that she is an actress who will make a unique reputation for herself. Miss Windsor is fair, willowy and carries herself excellently. As the woman who holds down the right angle in this domestic triangle, she measures up to every expectation.

Another player, new in Goldwyn pictures, though a well known player, is Elliott Dexter. As was to be expected, his performance is excellent. "Grand Larceny" is a dramatic story well directed and excellently produced. It is one of those pictures that cannot be reviewed in detail without giving away its plot. The larceny is not a theft of property, but of a woman's heart. Go to the Lyceum Theatre and see how Claire Windsor proves that in the long run she cannot be stolen by any man because she belongs to herself. There is a real thrill in store for you.

New York, Dec. 27—Babe Ruth's collapse as the champion swatter and the dismal rout of the New York Yankees in the world's series were the outstanding events in 1922 baseball.

General prosperity was reported in most of the major and minor league clubs, although some of the eastern teams in the major leagues did not profit as they did in 1921.

Miserable weather in the early part of the season had much to do with it and there is no doubt that the absence of Babe Ruth during the time he was under suspension hurt the American League.

From a National League standpoint, the world's series was a great success, in as much as it was such a glorious victory for the Giants, who were looked upon as easy meat for the Yanks by most of the experts.

For the business offices of the two clubs, the series was a big bust and both teams lost money. The receipts of the tie game, approximately $121,000 were turned over to charity by Commissioner Landis and it was one of the best days of the series.

While it was a heavy loss to the clubs, the action of Landis was one of the best things that could have been done for baseball, as it stopped a lot of talk about commercialization of the series.

In reviewing the work on the diamond in the last season, familiar faces will be found in most of the honor places.

The champion batter of the National League was Rogers Hornsby, the great star of the St. Louis Cardinals who batted .4013.

Another great St. Louisan, George Sisler, the star first baseman of the Browns, again led the American League hitters with an average of .419.

Hornsby gained further laurels by becoming the home run king of the "big time," with a total of 42.

Kenneth Williams, a third noble of St. Louis, grabbed the homer title in the American League with a total of 39.

The Babe got himself 35, which was doing quite well considering the handicap placed on him by his suspension.

While the rise of youngsters began to be asserted in the National League pitching department, the veterans did well especially in the American League.

In average runs allowed per game, young "Rosey" Ryan, of the Giants was the best pitcher in the National League. He allowed only three runs per game. Pete Donahue, another youngster with the Cincinnati Reds, led the league in games won and lost with eighteen victories out of twenty-seven games.

"Old Red" Faber, who is rather addicted to the habit, was the most effective pitcher in the American League. He allowed an average of only 2.81 runs a game. Joe Bush, another old man of the pastime, led the league in games won and lost with twenty-six victories out of thirty-three games.

Southpaws predominated in the National League in one respect. The three leading pitchers in the number of games won were Cooper, Rixey, and Reuther. Cooper won twenty-seven games; Rixey 25 and Reuther 21. No trio of right handers could come near the mark.

The leaders among the fielders were:

First base—Judge, Senators; McInnis, Indians and Daubert, Reds.

Second base—Collins, White Sox; Hornsby, Cards.

Third base—Jones, Detroit; Groh, Giants.

Shortstop—Scott, Yanks; Hollocher, Cubs.

Outfielders—Speaker, Cleveland; Veach and Cobb, Detroit; Wheat, Robins;

Powell, Braves; and Muesel, Giants.

Catchers—Schalk, White Sox; Henline, Phils.

AMUSEMENTS

At the New Park

Bud Doyle crawled out of bed to the window. The weakness of a long illness had left him faint and trembling.

On his unsteady journey across the room his hand rested for a moment on the bureau. His fingers touched something cold and metallic. It was a mirror. By instinct his fingers closed upon it. Ordinarily Bud was not very much interested in mirrors. The police had always shown considerable more interest in his face than he had ever felt himself but as he touched the mirror there did come to his mind a faint curiosity to know just what happens to a face when you fall out of an aeroplane upon it.

He took one look out of the window, then he lifted the mirror to the light.

What he saw almost stopped the blood in his veins.

The face he saw in the mirror was not his face.

This, with the extraordinary event which followed, is one of the thrilling and dramatic situations in Thomas H. Ince's super-photoplay, which will be seen at the New Park theatre tonight and Thursday.

"Grand Larceny" at the Lyceum

The quest for new faces for the screen has been successful in the latest Goldwyn picture to be shown at the Lyceum Theatre tonight and Thursday. "Grand Larceny," by Albert Payson Terhune, is the play chosen by Goldwyn for the debut of beautiful Claire Windsor as a leading lady. We know of no one in recent years who looks so beautiful in everything she wears, and who at the same time doesn't let us forget that she is an actress who will make a unique reputation for herself. Miss Windsor is fair, willowy and carries herself excellently. As the woman who holds down the right angle in this domestic triangle, she measures up to every expectation.

Another player, new in Goldwyn pictures, though a well known player, is Elliott Dexter. As was to be expected, his performance is excellent. "Grand Larceny" is a dramatic story well directed and excellently produced. It is one of those pictures that cannot be reviewed in detail without giving away its plot. The larceny is not a theft of property, but of a woman's heart. Go to the Lyceum Theatre and see how Claire Windsor proves that in the long run she cannot be stolen by any man because she belongs to herself. There is a real thrill in store for you.
